

#

Penthera Secures Additional Patent for Key Mobile Technology

August 16, 2011 - Pittsburgh, PA.—(BUSINESS WIRE)— Penthera™, a privately-held firm developing mobile-centric software solutions, today announced that it has been granted U.S. Patent No. 7,999,788 by the United States Patent and Trademark Office. This patent award adds to Penthera's existing portfolio of issued United States patents.

The invention is related to Penthera's software systems, which deliver rich media content such as music, videos, digital publications, apps, user-generated content, advertisements, etc. over wireless networks efficiently while significantly improving user experience and enabling media consumption on mobile devices regardless of network availability. Penthera licenses its software to network operators, device manufacturers, and content providers.

“Receiving this patent is another validation of Penthera's core intellectual property claims in the delivery and consumption of rich content on mobile devices including smartphones and tablets,” said Sam Leinhardt, President and Chief Executive Officer of Penthera.

“We have taken a unique approach to transmitting heavy payloads and consuming rich media content on mobile devices, and I'm delighted to see the U.S. patent office recognize that uniqueness,” said Adam Berger, Penthera's Chief Technology Officer. Dr. Berger leads a team of software engineers and computer scientists working at Penthera.

Penthera is committed to being a leading innovator in the field of mobile data and has additional patent applications pending in the U.S. and internationally.

For additional information, visit the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office Web site at <http://www.uspto.gov>.

About Penthera

Founded in 2007, Penthera develops and deploys end-to-end products facilitating the delivery of rich content over wireless networks to mobile devices. Virtuoso™ has been field-tested by tier-1 network operators, brand-name content studios, and across a variety of smartphone and tablet platforms.

Penthera's customers are network providers, publishers, OEMs, and other entities that need to deliver media content securely, reliably, and verifiably to their customers and employees.

For more information, visit www.penthera.com.

###

Penthera is a trademark of Penthera Partners, Inc. All other marks are the property of their respective owners.